NUTRITION SCIENCE MEDIA AWARD

QUALIFICATIONS:

The ASN Nutrition Science Media Award is awarded for consistent, accurate nutrition science reporting for a general audience over the past year or longer. The award honors an individual (rather than institutions or employers) for his or her achievements in nutrition science journalism or other media venue. The winning journalist/media representative will have helped to foster the public's understanding and appreciation of current nutrition issues based on science. The nomination packet should address the following and the number in parenthesis indicates the maximum points scored during the review process:

Is consistently scientifically accurate	(25)
Covers current nutrition issues with balance and perspective	(25)
Has broad audience reach	(20)
Is creative in presentation of material	(15)
Regularly quotes credible health professionals, including ASN members	(15)

Advertising, special advertising sections or advertorials are not eligible for consideration.

NOMINATIONS MUST INCLUDE:

1. A letter stating the significance and impact of work, covering all criteria listed above.
2. A curriculum vitae or resume of the nominee.
3. Selected samples of the nominee's work such as print materials, audio and/or videotapes. Each sample must be labeled with information on date of use of publication and reach of the communication.
4. Application form.

APPLICATION AND SELECTION:

1. Submit one original of the candidate's nomination packet postmarked by Jan. 27 as only those nominations postmarked by this date will be considered.
2. Selection will be based on the application packet and above established criteria for the award. The candidate's vitae must be included.
3. A maximum of 3 letters of support may accompany the application packet. The Selection Committee will only review support letters in the application packet.
4. Nominators should combine efforts in preparing one nomination packet. Selection is not influenced by multiple entries.
5. The award will be presented at the ASN Annual Award Ceremony at EB. Reasonable travel and hotel expenses of the awardee will be reimbursed.

NOTIFICATION:

1. Once the Selection Committee has selected the award winner, notification will be sent to the awardee and the originator of the application.
2. If applicable, one originator will be selected to write the award citation.
3. Those applications of nominees not selected will be returned to the originator. The Association will notify unsuccessful nominees.

Please submit the original to: Valerie Bloom, American Society for Nutrition (ASN)
