NEW EDITOR ANNOUNCED FOR THE JOURNAL OF NUTRITION

Strengthening the ASN Publication Portfolio

April 9, 2013—Dr. Teresa A. Davis will begin her term as Editor of The Journal of Nutrition (JN) on January 1, 2014 and will continue through the end of 2018. She is the 2012-2013 President of the American Society for Nutrition (ASN) and brings a wealth of journal experience to the position. She served on JN’s Editorial Board for six years before becoming an Associate Editor in 2005.

“Dr. Davis has been very effective as leader of the Society, and I have no doubt she will bring those abilities to her new role with JN,” said Gordon Jensen, MD, PhD, ASN President-Elect.

The author of more than 125 peer-reviewed publications on topics including nutritional management and growth in infants, children, and farm animals, Davis has received numerous research awards, including the E.L.R. Stokstad Award for outstanding fundamental research in nutrition and the Animal Growth and Development Award from the American Society of Animal Science. She is currently a professor in the Department of Pediatrics, U.S. Department of Agriculture/Agricultural Research Service, Children’s Nutrition Research Center at Baylor College of Medicine.

The appointment of Dr. Davis was the result of a national search conducted by a search committee composed of ASN members who are leading research scientists. She will succeed Dr. A. Catharine Ross, The Pennsylvania State University, as Editor-in-Chief.

Published since 1928, The Journal of Nutrition (JN) was the first scientific journal created solely for publication of nutrition research. Contents include peer-reviewed research reports on all aspects of experimental nutrition, critical reviews, commentaries, and symposium and workshop proceedings.

ASN is the authoritative voice on nutrition and publisher of The American Journal of Clinical Nutrition, The Journal of Nutrition, and Advances in Nutrition. Established in 1928, ASN’s more than 4,900 members in more than 65 countries work in academia, practice, government, and industry. ASN advances excellence in nutrition research and practice through its publications, education, public affairs and membership programs. Visit us at www.nutrition.org.