

Assistant, Associate, or Full
Professor of Medicine

Position #39247

Nutrition

The University of Central Florida College of Medicine is seeking enthusiastic and dynamic faculty member to participate in an integrated, organ system-based curriculum that will prepare physicians for practice in the 21st century. The candidate will also collaborate with faculty to integrate and reinforce nutrition concepts throughout all four years of the curriculum by leading a longitudinal theme.

The College of Medicine aspires to become an extraordinary research-based institution training physicians of the future who will become exemplary physicians, leaders in medicine, scholars in science, innovators in medical technology and compassionate providers of health care. Preliminary accreditation has been granted and UCF's College of Medicine admitted its first class of 40 students in August of 2009. As part of the "Medical City" at Lake Nona which is currently under construction, just east of the Orlando International Airport, the College of Medicine takes residence on the UCF Health Sciences Campus among the Burnham Institute for Medical Research, Nemours Children's Hospital, M.D. Anderson Cancer Research Institute and the VA Medical Center Orlando.

Position is a non-tenure earning, multi-year contract in the Department of Medical Education. Applicants are required to have a doctoral degree in nutrition and have experience in presenting content to post-secondary students. Preferred qualifications include experience teaching medical students and developing curriculum, the ability to apply nutrition concepts in a clinical setting, and the potential for scholarly activity.
